Why Require A Fraud, Waste and Abuse program

Due to the increasing total expense of Medicare and the fraud, abuse, and waste experiences discovered by investigators, the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) issued a rule that makes fraud, abuse, and waste training required for all pharmacists, among others participating in Medicare Part D. This ruling becomes effective on January 1, 2009. Pharmacies have nine months from that date to perform the training. CMS will monitor training from training logs and completion documentation.

When more than 40 million seniors became eligible for a drug benefit under Medicare Part D in 2006 by paying a monthly fee (in most cases) and massive amounts of money started changing hands, most people could have predicted this would be a prime area for criminals to go hunting for potential scams or other schemes to enrich themselves at the expense of Medicare and American seniors.

Indeed, that expectation became reality. The National Center for Policy Analysis estimates that Medicare and Medicaid fraud and abuse cost about $33 billion each year. They further reported that the General Accounting Office estimated in 1992 that perhaps 10% of Medicare spending (pre-Part D) was lost to fraud and abuse. Of course, this was not good news for the administrators of Medicare, one of the fastest growing federal government expenditure sources. Spending for Medicare grew to $380 billion by 2003 with a daily cost of over $1 billion.

Medicare Part D plan sponsors are required to have a comprehensive plan to detect, correct, and prevent fraud, waste, and abuse. The eight components that each plan must include are:

1. Written Policies, Procedures, and Standards of Conduct
2. A Compliance Officer and Compliance Committee
3. Training and Education
4. Effective Lines of Communication
5. Enforcement of Standards through well publicized disciplinary guidelines
6. Monitoring and Auditing
7. Corrective Action Procedures
8. Comprehensive Fraud and Abuse Plans - procedures to voluntarily self-report potential fraud or misconduct
